BURLINGTON, Ontario [May 30, 2011] – eBridge Software - a long-standing Microsoft partner – has recently achieved both Gold and Silver status for software development in the Microsoft Partner Network. In order to achieve Gold status, companies must go above and beyond the requirements for Silver by certifying more developers, and providing a larger number of Microsoft customer referrals. Gold status is currently the highest achievable level in software development within the Microsoft Partner Network.

This commitment to Microsoft and its worldwide user-base has equipped eBridge with large team of Microsoft Certified Professionals ready to develop and implement new solutions for Microsoft Dynamics users. “Participation in the Microsoft Partner Network is an absolute necessity for eBridge. The expectations of our customers require us to remain closely aligned with Microsoft and by having a team of certified developers, we are poised to fulfill our users’ integration needs now and as Microsoft technologies evolve” says Mark Gladwish.

By maintaining a close working relationship with Microsoft, eBridge is able to ensure its solutions stay current and compatible with changes to not only the Microsoft Dynamics product line, but also changes to the Microsoft Windows operating system. eBridge integration solutions are generally certified before updates and new versions of Microsoft products even reach the hands of users. Maintaining an uninterrupted flow of operations is crucial for eBridge as their users rely on the integration platform to process business transactions 24/7/365.
